NEW YORK SAID TO BE ABSOLUTELY PREE OF BOTH SCOURGES.

Prof. Proctor's Case Was Isolated, and There Will Probably Be No More Like It - The Dead Astronomer's Remains Volunteers to Go South as

Side by side on the bulletin board in the offices of the Health Department this morning were the announcements that there is not a case of yellow fever or of small-pox in the

These bulletins were the same which were posted yesterday afternoon and Clerk Golderman said that there had been no occasion to change them. He accurately proclaims the condition of the city with regard to these two scourges, and the failure of development of a new case would seem to indicate that Prof. Proctor's was of an isolated character and carried no infection with it,

The dead astronomer's remains still remain on North Brother's Island uninterred and will so remain until the arrival of Mrs. Proctor with directions as to its disposal.

Mrs. Proctor was notified of her husband's severe iliness by Dr. Edson on Tuesday, and started from her home in Oakland, Fla., on Wednesday last. She should have reached here this morning, if she had not been detained for quarantine or other cause, but she had not avived at noon or at least she had Wednesday last. She should have reached here this morning, if she had not been detained for quarantine or other cause, but she had not arrived at noon, or, at least, she had not made her presence known if she was in the city.

Proprietor W. G. Schenck, of the Westminster Hotel, where Prof. Proctor was taken with the fever, said this morning that even if Mrs. Proctor should come to his hostelry with a clean bill of health, he did not think that he would receive her as a guest. The guests at the Westminster are not at all alarmed over the yellow-fever matter, and seem to have aimost forgotten that there was a fatal case in the hotel on Tuesday last.

Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the Health Department, said this morning, when told of the reluctance of the proprietor of the Westminster Hotel to receive Mrs. Proctor, that he would not hesitate to receive her in his family.

"The truth of the matter is," said he, "that there is absolutely no danger from yellow fever in the climate of this city. People may bring the disease here and may die of it, but these cases may be completely and perfectly iso'ated without any fear of the disease being communicated to others."

Although the remains of the dead astronomer are inclosed in an hermetically sealed casket, the wife will be allowed to view them if she so desires, as there is a glass section in the corner of the casket exposing the face.

A meeting of the Board of Health will be held this afternoon, when the question of meeting and fighting yellow fever in this city may be discussed.

It was reported this morning that Miss Nadige Dores, a pretty young actress, formerly with Mrs. Langtry's company, had volunteered to go to Jacksonville as a yellow-fever nurse, giving up for the purpose a promising theatrical engagement for which she had been studying. She has made a will by which, in case of her death, her money and effects are to be used for the benefit of the sufferers. Miss Dorec had a misunders anding with Mrs. Langtry which led to a suit for $1,200 against the Lily.

near Hastings, a pleasure party of six persons was left helpless in the water by the sudden falling to pieces of the rotten sailboat in which they had embarked.

One of the party, Jake Maughan, a school teacher from Tenafly, N. J., was saved by persons who saw the boat sink. The other five were drowned. The lost ones were all from Creek-ville and were Miss Elizabeth Butler, aged twenty; Miss Nettie Voorhees, aged twenty-two; John Demorest, aged twenty-six; an artist named Derringer, and Mr. Maughan's four-year-old son Sylvester.

An Ancient Irish Sword and Pike Shews in a Bowery Window.

A Bowery shoe dealer has several interesting relics of the Irish rebellion of 1798. One of these is a genuine halberd, and there is also a pike manufactured in Dublin by Hyland kept a blacksmith's shop, but made these weapons on the quiet. The Government suspected him, and in the year 1848 a detective succeeded in securing one of the instruments from nim.

He was arrested and imprisoned. When he was released he returned to his old place and put up a sign which read: "Hylaud, Pike-Maker to the Castle." This was true, he mid, because the detective was sent to him by people in the Castle.

The pike and halverd, are tied together with a piece of bright green ribbon, and stuck

The pike and halverd, are tied together with a piece of bright green ribbon, and stuck down between them is a sword. The sword has a narrow blade about three feet long and there is an ivory handle with which to grasp it. It was captured from an English officer by an Irish rebel at the battle of Vinegar Hill, County Wexford, in 1798.

On the blade is the name of the maker: "Gaul, 1798." There is also a coat-of-arms and the name "Anniskillen," but it is difficult to say whether the sword was the property of the Anniskillen family or the dragoons of that name.

If has been in Dublin Castle several times under the "Arms act," which is operative in Ireland in times of trouble.

The nike and sword were brought here about four years ago by Con Quinn, who is now a member of the Sixty-ninth Regiment. The relics are in the shoemakers's windew, and, from the number of people who stop to glance at them, testify to the interest that is taken in them.

BROKER BENNETT LINGERS.

Either Death or Paralysis His Fate-No Clue to His Assallant.

Broker Daniel Rennett is better this morn. ing and his physician, Dr. Wilkinson, has more hopes of his recovery. His improvement, however, is merely a gain of strength. The evidences of paralysis, deafness and difficulty in articulation or swallowing are still manifest, and the doctor is forced to admit that even if the old gentleman recovers he may lose one or more of his faculties or be partially paralyzed for the rest of his life.

THE EVENING WORLD reporter who called at the house on Forrest street this morning was met by young Augustus Bennett, who looked tired and pale, having spent the night at his father's bedside,

He said that the old gentleman had passed a good night, having been awake but twenty minutes. This morning his temperature was normal and his pulse 81. Almost his sole nourishment is milk His throat trouble prevents the swallowing of any solid food. The crisis will soon come, and the man who dealt the midnight blow will then be guilty of either murder or assents.

It Will Begin To-Morrow Evening in Madison Square Garden.

The second annual fair and festival of the Anti-Poverty Society will begin to-morrow evening at Madison Square Garden, and continue for two weeks, ending Saturday, Sept. 29.

The object of the fair is to raise funds to enable the ociety to ass at the United Labor party in the coming campaign.

Admission will be free to morrow evening, and the fair will be duly inaugurated by a and the fair will be duly inaugurs'ed by a ratification meeting, at which speeches will be made by Robert H Cowdrey, of Illinois, and Col. W. H. T. Wakefield, the United Labor party National candidates, and also by Dr. MeGlynn, W. B. Ogden, of Kentucky Dr. Alfred S. Heughton, of Ohio; E. M. Chamberlain, of Massachusetts, and Robert Pyns., of Connecticut.

On other days admission to the fair will be 10 cents, and tickets in strips of ten can be purchased at the society's office, 27 Cooper Union, and at the doors of the ghrden.

A committee of ladies will have charge of the restaurant, and dancing will be indulged in every evening. A great success is predicted for the society.

They Want to Be Hospital Nurses.

Fifteen young men and one young woman underwent at Cooper Union to-day the civilservice examination necessary to have an opportunity of securing some of the vacant positions of orderlies and nurses in various public hospitals. Prof. R. T. Greener, Dr. B. F. Vosburgh and George N. Williamson conducted the examination.

The applicants were examined on technical points, experience, health, reading, hand-writing and mental arithmetic. Prof. Greener saul the applicants were of a higher intellectual average than usual.

Situation Worse To-Day Only in That the People Are Weaker and More Wearled.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 14.-The situation here is worse to-day only as the people who are not affected by yellow fever are weaker and more wearied. The mortality for the past forty-eight hours has been comparatively small, only seven deaths having occurred during that time. The number of new cases of fever reported in the twenty-four hours ending at noon is twenty.

Despite ofir own desperate situation, our people find time and heart to sympathize with the beleaguered town of McClenny, and Dr. Neal Mitchell sent a large supply of medicines and other needful things to that town yesterday.

Dr. L. A. Bryan, of Houston, Tex., who was with Dr. J. O. Summers through the fearful epidemic at Memphis, Tenn., in 1878, has come to the aid of his Jacksonville fellow-physicians, and is a splendid addition to the force. More doctors and nurses are much needed, however. Those desiring to come to Jacksonville in either capacity should address G. E. Wilson, who is Chairman of the new Committee on Nurses and Medical Aid.
The tugitive train to Hendersonville, N. C., was the object of awful curiosity all along the line. The 228 people on board would have famished en route but for the valor of a few brave people who when the train stopped here and there supplied them with food obtained by generous contributions.
Mr. Page, Mr. Young and Mrs. Douglas, three of the passengers on the train, were stricken with yellow fever after the train left here.

Pishing is fine on a summer day,
Out on the ocean blue,
When round the vessel the dolphins play
And flutters the wild sea mew;

When the day is warm and the breeze is light, And the sea is amooth and calm. And the cod and haddock and tomcode fight For the hook and the tempting clam; When the playful whale in his merriment blows And the sportive swords a bound, And the lunch is spread and the lager flows And the toast goes merrily round.

But fishing's a dull and spiritless thing, And wholly bereft of cheer, When the lazy cook has forsot to bring The keg with the lager beer.
